

WELCOME 1-7-2024

Christians hold a dual citizenship. We are citizens of earth, but, more importantly, we are also citizens of Heaven: "God...has blessed us with every spiritual blessing in the heavenly places" (Eph. 1:3). It's been said that some Christians are so heavenly minded, they're no earthly good. But usually the opposite is true. Many Christians are so enamored with this present world that they no longer look forward to heaven. They have everything they want right here. The health, wealth, and prosperity doctrine has convinced them that Christians can have it all, and they pursue "the good life" with a vengeance. Despite the prevalence of such thinking, the old spiritual well says, "This world is not my home. I'm just a passin' through." Paul reminds us of that truth in Philippians 3:20: "Our citizenship is in heaven, from which also we eagerly wait for a Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ." That's why we must set our minds on heavenly, not on earthly things (Col. 3:1-2). Our deepest affections and highest aspirations should center there. Our actions and decisions should reflect heavenly priorities, not earthly indulgences. Even though we live in a sin-stained world and must constantly fight against its corrupting influences, God hasn't left us stranded. He extends to us all the rights and privileges of our heavenly citizenship. Let that assurance encourage you today to live to His glory and rely on His heavenly provisions. Take care not to let trivial pursuits distract you from your heavenly priorities. Welcome to H.C.C.
